Undergraduate Programs

New Undergraduate Programs Curriculum Developmental Work

Developmental work for a new undergraduate curriculum was undertaken in 2017-18, which included working with students from Collaborative, After Degree, Bilingual, Honors and RPN to BScN programs.

Prior to the implementation of the new curriculum, a developmental study was completed to determine what was working in the old curriculum and what needed to be changed. Dr. Olive Yonge interviewed 433 internal and external stakeholders and generated well over 100 recommendations.

These formed the basis of the new curriculum, which has brought with it many opportunities for change, including use of Atlas to track concepts, standardized course outlines, new clinical placement opportunities, improved simulation, blended learning, increased use of eClass, and online assessments and learnings.

Faculty Learning Communities were offered to all Assistant Professors to orient them to research programs, to demonstrate how to prepare dossiers for promotion, and to explore and address issues they were having with teaching. A series of book clubs were also held with books written by educators to prepare faculty for these changes.

New Course on Indigenous Health in Canada

Indigenous Health in Canada - NURS 222: After a two-year development process involving all health faculties at the University of Alberta, the first pilot offering started in Spring 2018.

Student Advisory Council

A new Student Advisory Council (SAC) was implemented to collectively represent the interests of all undergraduate students. The SAC has developed a student member role description and goal/purpose statement to differentiate the responsibilities and activities of this group from those of the Student-

Faculty Relations Committee. Students in the Bilingual Program and in the After Degree Program (Camrose) will continue to have their own committee meetings to address the unique needs of their student populations but will also be represented at the SAC meetings.

Clinical Impact of Nursing Students

Our students continue to make important contributions in continuing care settings during their clinical placements. These placements give students the chance to see ideas in new contexts. In the words of one community partners:

“[Clinical placements] are very helpful in building relationships with students who need a caring adult in their lives; working with refugee students who are brand new to the country; helping with supervision and safety concerns; providing extra opportunities for students to exercise, socialize and play.”

Rural Education Initiatives

In the Fall term the Faculty of Nursing (FoN), a number of undergraduate students attended a rural skills weekend in collaboration with the Rural Physician Action Plan (RPAP), Campus Saint-Jean and our Faculty. This weekend in Fort McMurray was dedicated to students in the Bilingual program, with a number of students taking leadership before and during the weekend.

RPAP has provided travel and accommodation funding for 24 of our students in the Fall 2017 and Winter 2018 to successfully secure senior practicum placements in rural sites throughout Alberta. This mutually beneficial initiative enhances rural communities while building students’ skills.

In addition, in Fall 2017, 8 nursing students and 14 medical students, placed together in 7 rural sites, partook in a rural interprofessional preceptorships with educational modules including rural context, collaborative practice and roles and responsibilities inserted with formal interprofessional patient assessments. We continue to build upon our rural partnerships and collaborations.

Global Office

Brazil Project Fellowship and Collaboration

An external donor provided support until 2017 for post-doctoral scholars from the University of São Paulo – Ribeirão Preto (USP-RP), Brazil, to spend six to twelve months at the Faculty of Nursing to work with a tenure track researcher. The final two funded scholars visited the Faculty of Nursing, University of Alberta, in 2017.

Dr. Solina Richter was also invited as visiting professor to USP-RP, discussing further research collaboration, and present lectures to undergraduate and graduate students and faculty members. The visit was funded by the Brazilian Funding Agency CNPq (National Council for Scientific and Technological Development).

International Research

The Global Nursing Office continues to host visitors from partners across the globe. We currently have staff and students representing over 25 countries.

This year, we've welcomed visitors from Brazil (USP-RP Brazil, Federal University of Santa Catarina Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul), Germany (Bielefeld University), China (Guanghua International Education Alliance Delegation), Pakistan (Aga Khan University), Columbia, Japan (Yasuda Women's, Sappora Medical University), South Korea (Yonsei University), Australia (University of Adelaide), Ghana (University of Ghana), United Kingdom (University of Manchester), and Spain (Universidad de Navarra).

Ghana Initiatives

In 2018, we hosted three Queen Elizabeth Jubilee Advanced Scholars from the School of Nursing and Midwifery, University of Ghana. We received two Masters of Philosophy in Nursing students from the University of Ghana for a summer research course.

Twelve University of Alberta undergraduate nursing students completed their Global Health theory course and final Clinical Preceptorship in Ghana during January to April 2018. Our Faculty was able to secure $6,000 in University of Alberta Queen Elizabeth Scholarship funding -- totalling $72,000 for the year from a $500,000 QES multi-year fund -- in addition to University of Alberta International Group Study Abroad Award of $1,750 for each student.

Our Faculty continues to seek funding to develop a Nursing PhD program with the University of Ghana. Dr. Solina Richter visited the University of Ghana, School of Nursing and Midwifery from June 24 until July 14, 2017 as a Carnegie African Diaspora Scholar to continue supporting the effort to secure funding for the Nursing PhD program at the University of Ghana.

Memoranda of Understanding (MOU)

Manchester: In May 2017, the Faculty has developed a Student Mobility Agreement with the University of Manchester, School of Nursing and Midwifery (UM). It is in its final stages of completion.

Karolinska Institutet: The MOU between the Karolinska Institutet and the University of Alberta, Faculty of Nursing is now signed.

Chiang Mai University, Faculty of Nursing and Mahidol University, Faculty of Nursing: Agreements with these institutions are now signed.

The Mustard Seed Initiative

For the past eight years the Faculty of Nursing has sponsored, prepared, and served dinners at The Mustard Seed, and we continue to grow the scope of this service and community support collaboration.

University of Adelaide Global Health Summer Program

Discussions have started for a two-week health sciences interdisciplinary summer program for undergraduate health sciences students from University of Adelaide, Australia.

Research Nursing Office

Health Research Data Repository (HRDR)

23 tenure-track faculty members held data in the HRDR. As of September 2017, there were 77 research projects and 177 active users. Approved users are from the University of Alberta, Canadian (British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island) and international (United States, United Kingdom, Australia, Germany, Spain, Denmark, and Sweden) institutions.

International Nursing Scholar Series

Funds from the International Nursing Scholar Series were used to support an internationally renowned scholar to foster scholarship, engagement, and mentorship with key communities in and across the Faculty of nursing. The Health Equity Area of Excellence was awarded $5000 to host Dr. Kenia Lara da Silvia, Assistant Professor at the Federal University of Minas Gerais in Brazil.

Undergraduate Student Research

The Research Portfolio hosted the Undergraduate Students Summer Series: Launchpad to Research between June 7 and July 26, 2017. This involved weekly catered lunch and presentations, and opportunities to engage in discussions regarding their own research projects. 13 students were registered, a 48% decrease from last year. The last week of this series students were enjoyed to present their own research.

Teaching and Learning Office

Online Programs and Courses

The Teaching and Learning Office (TLO) provides eLearning support for our online programs and courses to ensure that students are successful in the online environment. TLO also engages with instructors to help them transition to the online space and leverage learning technologies that match their instructional strategies.

Student Response Systems

With support of the TLO, instructors in the undergraduate program are using a variety of student response systems as a quick way to measure comprehension and increase interactivity in their classes. The most common tools used include Socrative, Kahoot and iClickers while the TLO continues to investigate new and emerging trends in this area.

Online Student Orientation

Each year we welcome approximately 350 new undergraduate students. To support them, in Fall 2017 we offered an online gamified orientation course that they could participate in before classes began. The course was well received by students, with a more than 70% participation rate. This innovative approach to orientation offers students the flexibility of accessing critical information and connecting with their peers at a time or location of their choosing.

Gamification

We continue to implement and examine the use of gamification in undergraduate courses, integrating game elements such as quests and points accumulation using the eClass environment. Direct feedback from the students and instructors on the use of these strategies will be used to inform future iterations of course design.

Indigenous Health Course

In November 2017, the Health Sciences Council at the University of Alberta invited the Faculty of Nursing to develop a series of learning activities and resources in support of Indigenous Health. As a part of this agreement all course elements developed would be shared by members of the Health Sciences Council. The TLO worked with the Faculty of Nursing undergraduate administration team and instructors to develop online content and prepare a unique course format that was offered to undergraduate students in Spring 2018.
