Improving Eye Care Through Tele-ophthalmology

Featuring: Dr. Mark Greve,
Dr. Brad Hinz, Mr. Abshir
Moalin, Dr. Chris Rudnisky
& Dr. Matt Tennant

This group of Tele-Ophthalmology pioneers will be presenting on Tele-ophthalmology in keeping with the spirit of providing quality care to under-served populations, a theme that was very close to Dr. Marshall's heart. They will share insights and stories related to the evolution of teleophthalmology within the Department of Ophthalmology as well as cover some contemporary and future perspectives.

Dr. Mark Marshall was the Chairman of the Department of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology from 1940 to 1960. He had an international reputation as an innovative leader and a precise and demanding surgeon and teacher. He demonstrated empathy for and provided care to under-served populations in Edmonton and Northern Alberta. As the first Director of Graduate Medical Training at the University of Alberta (1949-1961), Marshall realized a vision of training which involved Alberta graduates pursuing post-graduate specialties. Core training at the University Hospital was complemented by further education at hospitals world-wide before a return to Edmonton. The residency training program that he developed became known informally as the "Marshall Plan" and laid the foundation for medical specialty development in Alberta.
