I. Applicant's declaration of research focus area(s) and potential academic supervisors

Admission in a graduate program in the Department of Physics requires applicants to declare their intended research focus area and a maximum of three possible academic supervisors. We strongly recommend that applicants contact the supervisors to determine whether there are open positions in their research group.

Details of departmental featured research areas can be found at:

<https://www.ualberta.ca/en/physics/research/index.html>.

a. My intended research focus area(s):

- Astrophysics and Gravity
- Biophysics
- Condensed Matter Physics and Atomic, Molecular & Optical Physics
- Geophysics
- Particle Physics
- Space and Plasma Physics

b. My preferred academic supervisors (list up to three):

II. Applicant's declaration of financial assistance

The Department of Physics endeavors to provide our graduate students with secure funding from a variety of sources during the normal durations of their graduate program (MSc programs for two years, PhD programs for four years).
