

MARTHA COOK PIPER RESEARCH PRIZE

Terms of reference and application process

This award commemorates Dr. Piper's significant contribution to the research community while Vice-President (Research) and Vice-President (Research and External Affairs) at the University of Alberta from 1993-1997. Two awards are presented annually to faculty members in the early stage of their careers who enjoy a reputation for original research and show outstanding promise as researchers in distinct fields of research:

1. excellence in general area of business, education, fine arts, humanities, law, or social sciences
2. excellence in the sciences, health sciences, or engineering.

Eligibility

Candidates must be within ten (10) years of completing a doctoral degree (or equivalent qualification). For candidates with an MD or DVM degree, the 10-year period begins after completing formal research training. To be eligible, candidates must have obtained the doctoral degree/equivalent (or completed their formal research training) on or after January 1, 2014. Candidates must also have a strong research record and demonstrate outstanding promise as a researcher.

The Office of the Vice-President (Research and Innovation) will consider extending the eligibility period for individuals who have taken leave (e.g. parental, illness, compassionate care, etc.)

Three principal criteria for nominee assessment are:

1. Quality of the individual's research
2. Impact of their research on the advancement of the discipline; to date and in the future.
3. Impact of their commitment to Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion in their work in the discipline, university or broader community and/or contributions to Indigenous Initiatives within or outside the University

Teaching shall not constitute part of the evaluation except for graduate teaching and supervision relevant to the candidate's research.

Selection process

The Office of the Vice President (Research and Innovation) [OVPRI] will review the candidate pool. If the pool is not deemed to represent the diversity of the research community at the University of Alberta, the OVPRI may choose to seek additional candidates from equity-deserving groups.

The award is adjudicated by a committee chaired by the Vice-President (Research and Innovation), or delegate. The committee includes one or more Associate Vice-Presidents (Research) and members from the University's research community who are suitably representative of the diversity that exists across the institution and who conduct research in the designated award categories.

The OVPRI will confirm that the selected recipients are members of good standing in their Faculty prior to notification.
