DEVELOPMENT & PEACE

Our Fall Action this year is an opportunity to stand with the Amazon's Indigenous and traditional peoples whose communities are threatened by deforestation, industrial agriculture, mining and oil extraction, and hydroelectric dams. Today you can support two of these threatened communities by signing our Solidarity Letter. Your signatures will allow us to call for their protection and respect of their rights. If you miss the chance today, you can sign the Solidarity Letter online at: devp.org/act. You can also make a personal commitment For Our Common Home by taking the intergenerational pledge at devp.org/pledge.

ADVENT TWILIGHT RETREAT

Join us for a meal and a quiet evening of prayer, song and reflection.

Tuesday, December 3rd, 5 - 8 pm
SJC Boardroom
sjccm@ualberta.ca to register

SAVE THE DATE - ADVENT PENANCE SERVICE

The College's penance service will be on Tuesday, December 17th, beginning at 6:30 pm in SJC Chapel. Fr. Glenn McDonald and Fr. David Bittner will be here from St. Alphonsus Parish, in case you don't want to make your confession to someone you see every week.

NEW HYMNALS

The new hymnals will be put out next weekend, for the first Sunday of Advent. Please treat them gently; we'll be using them for many years!

ARCHDIOCESE RESPONSE TO FIFTH ESTATE REPORT

This is an excerpt. For the full response, please go to caedm.ca

...we have consulted with several victims and families of victims, particularly on the subject of publishing the names of offenders in cases where there has been no criminal charge or conviction. Without exception, they have advised us that publication of names of these offenders and details of the offences would serve only to re-traumatize them. Many had decided not to report their complaints to police and/or explicitly requested that there be no publicity of their complaints. This is not surprising, given that a court trial can be traumatic and that only 12% of all sexual assaults reported by police lead to a criminal conviction.

The Archdiocese of Edmonton is first and foremost committed to assisting any and all victims with their healing, and respecting their requests for privacy. Archbishop Richard Smith put it this way:

"What you experienced should never have happened, and we are profoundly sorry. We know that such abuse leaves a long and lasting scar, not only on you, the individual victim, but also on your family. As we continue to move forward on this issue, it is your interest that must, and will, come first in everything we do."

Our file review does enable us to assure our people that no priest who has been credibly accused of sexual abuse of a child is serving in active ministry in the Archdiocese of Edmonton.

We also require training in abuse prevention and reporting for every priest, seminarian, employee and volunteer in the Archdiocese to ensure as much as we can that this never happens again.

When it comes to publication of names, it is important to note also that laws in Canada and the United States differ. For example, journalists in Canada do not normally name an alleged offender unless he has been criminally charged...

The Archdiocese of Edmonton continues to examine the issues around sexual abuse and the lessons learned. In discerning how best to confront the evil of sexual abuse, we are grateful for the assistance of victims, our faithful, and the media.

If you wish to report abuse by a priest or anyone else working on behalf of the Archdiocese, we invite you to make a confidential complaint to 877-770-6777 and encourage you to report to police as well.
